

Austin Garrison

Grease

In Rydell High, Danny Zuko and his Greasers own the school - until Danny has a summer fling with the new girl, Sandy Dumbrowski. This show featured a giant rotating Jukebox that transformed into different parts of the Rydell High world.

For this show, Austin prepared and constructed the Jukebox, which had a steel frame sheathed in luan, two entrances, light-up panels, an internal staircase, and two giant 8' x 19' wings. After the set's completion, Austin managed the lighting, set, sound, and the crew for the show.

Austin's Roles:

- Production Stage Manager
- Sound Designer
- Carpenter

Dandy Dan has created a freeze-gun "The Splurge" that he uses to kidnap Fat Sam's Gang. Then Dandy Dan corners the root beer market. It is up to Bugsy to bring this root beer war to an end, and in the meantime, he has to win the heart of his best girl, Blousy Brown - that is, unless Tallulah, the Grand Slam's infamous nightclub singer has anything to say about it.

This show had three different casts who had to learn three similar directions with the same sets and lights. While learning to balance every difference and similarity, this show performed twelve times in two weekends.

The Wizard of Oz

The classic story of the Wizard of Oz is twisted into a Seattle version when Dorothy slips on a wet floor. She is transported to an OZ modeled after a modern Victorian Seattle, where everything is changed; Dorothy must ride the Atomic Space Needle Rocket home, but she must first find the technology-challenged Wicked Witch and bring her broomstick to a Giant Cement Wizard Troll living under the Aurora Bridge.
